GAVEL GAB - Greg Ruby

As I write this Gavel Gab, our annual Swap Meet is beginning to wrap up. This year we had a light turnout of members, but those in attendance had a great time! I think everyone was able to walk away with a new item for their collection. A BIG "Thank You" to Dot Hajek and Marge Burford for arranging the refreshments at this years meet.

Congratulations to Jim Shipley on winning this years A. Vernon Taylor Memorial Literary Award, with Mill Hajek taking second place. Rich Kaminski walked away with the First New Writer's Award. There is still time for you to submit articles for this year. I am sure that our editor, Will Mumford, would welcome your entries.

Now for some really exciting news. MD TAMS will sponsor the Maryland TAMS Collectible Expo to be held with the MSNA's Atlantic Rarities Expo at the Baltimore Convention Center. Mark your calendars for June 20-23, 1996 to attend. Many of the country's leading token and medal dealers will be there.

Your newly elected officers and Board of Directors have several projects in the works that will hopefully be announced in the not too distant future. As always, your input is welcome. Feel free to write me on any MD TAMS issue. My address is Box 728, Hampstead, MD 21074.

I look forward to seeing you at one of our upcoming meetings. The next meeting will be Sunday, October 15th at 11 AM at the Associated Coin Clubs Coin Show. The next meeting will be Saturday, December 9th at the Suburban Washington/Baltimore Coin Show at the Baltimore Convention Center. Try real hard to make one or both of these meetings...and bring some stuff for our auction. Hope to see you there.

FROM YOUR EDITOR....

Will Mumford

Notice that YOUR is underlined above...this means that I am your editor and I rely on YOU to give me something to edit...We really need material or YOUR Journal is going to wither away for want of materials... What can you write about? Maybe some guidance will help trigger some ideas...

Write about your favorite token...

Write about the latest token you have added to your collection...

Write about your specialty area...

Write about the town from which a token was issued...

Write about a merchant who issued a token...

Write about the event which your token celebrates...

Write about the uniqueness of your token...

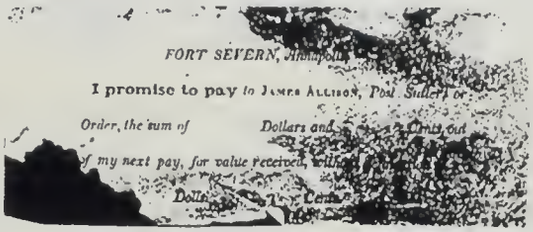
Write about an experience you have had in collecting...

And don't forget we cover lots of things besides tokens after all look what's covered under the definition of Exonumia...all kinds of paper things, buttons, medals, badges, and just about anything else that is collectable... This covers a lot of ground...even triggers a few ideas in my own mind.

You don't need to type the article...just write it up as best you can and rely on YOUR EDITOR to do the editing and the typing. Give it a try as we need YOUR input.

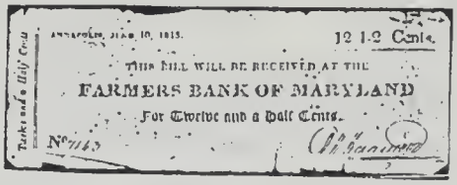
Read on for some specific ideas which I hope to develop in future issues...

A couple of years ago I came across a unique sutler item from Fort Severn in Annapolis. I have since found out that this item is the oldest known sutler paper item...a little more research and we have an article...



The star theater in Annapolis issued some tokens back in the 20's...this was the movie theater in Annapolis for Blacks. I remember the Star Theater when I was a young lad. I've done some research...still need to do a little more and another article will be ready...

I just obtained another note from Farmer's Bank of Maryland issued in 1815... Here's a story just waiting to be put together...



I have obtained a copy of the Confederate Secret Service Disk, which must come under the "exonumia" area... a great story awaits...

And more... what about YOU...!!!

Token Teaser

To stimulate the intellect of those members who want to be intellectually challenged, a Token Teaser will appear in each issue of the Journal. See if you can solve the Teaser and send your answers to the editor. The first correct solution will have his/her name in bold type in the next issue. Others with correct answers will also have their names published, but in smaller type and not in bold... Here's our next Token Teaser...

??

Russ is trying to collect one of every type of Baltimore token known to mankind. He estimates that he has approximately seven-eights of all Baltimore tokens that are listed, but continuously discovers new unlisted tokens. Over the past year Russ has discovered 18 unlisted Baltimore tokens, which is one-sixth of all the unlisted Baltimore tokens in his collection. The total unlisted Baltimore tokens in his collection is one-sixteenth of the total number of listed Baltimore tokens. Russ also estimates that only 25% of all unlisted tokens are represented in his collection.

a) How many listed Baltimore tokens does Russ have in his collection?

b) How many unlisted tokens does he have in his collection?

c) How many total Balt. tokens does Russ estimate to be in existence?

d) How many of these are "unlisted?"

e) How many undiscovered unlisted tokens does Russ estimate?

f) How many tokens does Russ need to complete his Baltimore collection?

CONGRATULATIONS...TO...

MILLARD HAJEK... & EVAN VOTTA..

For coming up with the correct answers to Token Tease # 2...
Millard's came first, so he is the first place winner and gets his name printed twice...Millard Hajek....Millard Hajek...(No doubt a name you readers' are not familiar with :)...

Correct Answers for Token Tease #2:

Millard (there's that name again) bought 72 pickers' checks with a "1" on them; 36 with a "5" and 12 with a "25". The equation is:

$$1.05((72\ (.01) + 36(.05) + 12(.25)) = 5.80$$

Keep trying folks...if at first you don't succeed...TRY AGAIN!!

THE EATON & BURNETT BUSINESS COLLEGE

by Millard W. Hajek

The Eaton & Burnett Business College was formed by a co-partnership with Abijah H. Eaton and Elijah Burnett in 1878 and incorporated in 1917. A. H. Eaton, at that time, was a member of the Baltimore bar and was for ten years Principal of Eaton's Business Colleges in Canada. Professor E. Burnett was a successful instructor for Penmanship, Bookkeeping and Mathematics in The Business College of Messrs. Bryant, Stratton, Bannister and Sadler in Baltimore.

Originally located on the northeast corner of Charles and Baltimore Streets, the college located to Howard and Lexington Streets in 1906 and 9-11 West Baltimore street in 1926. The college was a leader in business education preparing young men and women for responsible business positions. Its aim was to make the student thoroughly familiar with the principles of arithmetic, writing, spelling, grammar, correspondence and bookkeeping; to establish a solid foundation upon which to build subsequent knowledge which shall make the student a thorough accountant.

The business department included the college bank, merchandise emporium, transportation offices and conducted retail businesses, commission, jobbing and banking. The student assumed the responsibility of conducting business on his own account, buying, selling, recording and going into every detail as required in the best business houses. He was furnished with capital consisting of neatly engraved notes of the college bank, tokens and merchandise to conduct business. The tokens and a photocopy of the bank note are illustrated below.

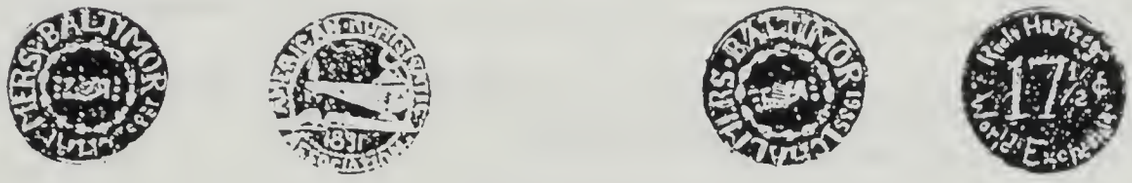
The dies used to strike tokens used by the Eaton & Burnett Business College are in 1, 5, 10 and 25 denominations. They were manufactured by the S.H. Quint's Sons Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The company, which went under the name S.H. Quint & Sons until 1905, started striking tokens and medals during the late nineteenth century. Only tokens for the 1, 5, and 25 denominations are shown here. It is not known if specimens for the 10 denomination exist. According to a very prominent Maryland Token Collector/Dealer, who has never seen the 10 denomination to date, sometimes dies were manufactured but never used to strike tokens. The reader may speculate if the 10 cent bank note was used in lieu of the 10 cent token.

TOKEN POTPOURRI

BY MILLARD W. HAJEK LM#1

ANA 1985 SOUVENIR

I was reminising about the 1985 and 1993 ANA conventions that were held in Baltimore and discovered some very interesting tokens among the souvenirs that I had collected. These tokens are illustrated below.



This is TYPE 1 issued in silver and pewter, 20mm in diameter for the 1985 ANA Convention. For Type 1, there is no final E in BALTIMOR.

Type 2 was also issued in silver and pewter, 20mm in diameter with BALTIMORE spelled properly.

These tokens should be classified as fantasy pieces which were made to imitate, in part, the Chalmers shilling. As coin collectors as well as Marylanders, we are all aware that John Chalmers, a goldsmith from Annapolis, Maryland struck a series of silver tokens in 1783. The shortage of change at that time and the refusal of people to use underweight cut spanish coins, commonly called bits, prompted Chalmers to issue these pieces. The Chalmers Shilling is illustrated below for your convenience and comparison to the fantasy pieces.

I obtained my specimens from Rich Hartzog during the 1985 ANA Convention and he informed me that the tokens were engraved by Charles Arceneaux of Lafayette, Louisana. Mr. Arceneaux used hand-cut dies to strike the tokens. "The Standard Catalog Of United States Tokens 1700-1900" authored by Russel Rulau contains excellent information about the tokens and their issues.

The obverse is the imitation of the Chalmers Shilling with clasped hands in the center, surrounded by a wreath with · BALTIMOR 1985 I. CHALMERS around the circumference. TYPE 2 is slightly different with 1985 appearing above the clasped hands. Two reverse designs were used. The first, RICH HARTZOG / 17½c/ WORLD EXONUMIA and the second, the lamp of knowledge with right portion missing /1891/ with AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION around the perimeter.
